UOL REPORT

This document elucidates that the UOL portal has undisguisedly carried out a defamation campaign against John Textor in recent months, visibly with an editorial line that is not in line with the tradition of this great newspaper and that has abandoned the basic principles of journalism, which is to listen to the other side before write your articles.

The screenshot shows the UOL website interface. At the top left is the UOL logo. To its right are navigation links: 'Your team', 'Your sign', 'Policy', and 'Today's Games'. Below the navigation is a profile section for Renato Mauricio Prado, including a small portrait and a link to 'About the author'. A yellow banner below the profile reads 'For subscribers only Subscribe to UOL'. The article is categorized as 'Opinion • Sport' and has the title 'Textor acts like Trump and spreads fake news'. The author is identified as Renato Mauricio Prado, a UOL Columnist. The article is dated 03/08/2024 2:07 PM and was updated on the same date at 2:07 PM. Social media sharing icons for WhatsApp, Facebook, X, Email, and LinkedIn are visible. The main text of the article begins with: 'I don't know if John Textor is a Democrat or a Republican. The way he acts in Brazilian football, however, is very similar to that of former President Donald Trump. He spreads fake news left and right, presents himself as the owner of the truth and then disappears.' A second paragraph follows: 'That's what he did, once again, after the game against Bragantino, when he gave a bombshell interview to Globo, claiming to have evidence of corruption in Brazilian football, including a recording of a referee complaining about not having received bribes. But he didn't show it, saying he would only present it in 30 days. And he traveled to the USA.'

When will the press stop being stupid and ignore Textor?

Renato Mauricio Prado • UOL Columnist

04/02/2024 3:12 PM

It borders on the unbelievable and is deeply disappointing to see how a large part of our sports press has bought into this nonsense created by Botafogo's owner, John Textor, to try to justify the biggest yellow card in the history of Brazilian football.

Since the first report, in November of last year, it was clear that it was all just fake news. The so-called "study", imagine, guaranteed that if there had been no manipulation of results, Botafogo would have finished the championship 21 points ahead of Palmeiras (it finished six points behind)! Can you take it seriously?

The owner of Botafogo was exposed, but it seems that almost no one cared.

Reporter Lucio de Castro published, through the website of the Instituto Conhecimento Liberta, a series of reports that track Textor's past and implicate some of his companies in bankruptcy schemes, misuse of public funds, closeness to Russian tycoons and financial pyramids. An incendiary package

John Textor, owner of Botafogo's SAF, before
